

Acknowledgments

This book is a compilation of the materials that I prepared for my workshops and courses on biomedical research writing for Hanyang University in 2006-2007. However, it was truly a group effort.

First, I must thank the Institute of Biomedical Science for sponsoring the MedPub Academy workshops and Yoo-sin Park and Eunyoung Kim for organizing them. I should also thank those who worked with me to develop the two-semester biomedical research writing curriculum for Master's and PhD students: Hee Yong Chung and Jeehee Youn, along with Sang Hun Lee who helped develop the plan for my journal club tutorials.

While any errors in the book are my responsibility, much of what is correct I learned from Hanyang's biomedical research, clinical medicine, and nursing faculty and graduate students. Several professors were kind enough to read chapters of the book before printing. Thank you Jeehee Youn, Kyung Tae, Mikyung Kim, and Juseop Kang, along with Sung-Tae Hong from Seoul National University. Thanks also to Dong Soo Han for writing the forward to this book.

Special thanks should go to my graduate assistant, Eunkyeong Jang, who helped me choose example texts, and my undergraduate assistants, Seong Pil Choi and Jae Hui Kim, who helped compile and analyze the linguistic corpora for my research. Sincere thanks also to the director of the Center for Teaching and Learning (CTL), Young Mahn You, who kindly approved funding for a free copy of this book for every professor in the College of Medicine, Bo-keum Choi who oversaw the design and printing, and Adam Turner, the director of the CTL English Writing Lab whose own more extensive handbook, English Solutions for Engineering Research Writing, was the model for this one.
